CESARIO SENTENCED.

Carnot's Murderer Must Die by the Guillotine.

A VERDICT PROMPTLY REACHED.

The Prisoner Wept When His Counsel Referred to His Mother, but Heard His Fate Without Evidence of Fear—His Counsel Takes an Appeal.

LYONS, Aug. 4.—When Santo Cesario was brought into court yesterday he seemed even more defiant than on Thursday, and took his seat with a mocking smile upon his face. Leblanc, the soldier who was a fellow prisoner with Cesario at Marseilles, testified that Cesario told him that he intended to kill President Carnot, probably at Lyons, when the chief magistrate visited the city.

"That is a lie," interrupted Cesario excitedly. "I never told you or any one else about my plans."

Leblanc continued.

"Cesario confided to me that he was designated by lot."

"That is untrue," shrieked Cesario.

"How untrue?" asked the soldier, turning to the prisoner.

"I said to you, after you had made that remark, 'But who would be so told as to kill President Carnot?' I saw him in Paris surrounded by troops and police.' You answered, 'He will be chosen by lot.'"

There was great excitement in court while the prisoner and Leblanc were speaking to each other.

Later Leblanc said: "Cesario told me that he had often seen King Humbert in the street; but he added that to kill him it would be necessary to have a rifle and shoot him from the street, as he would be surrounded by soldiers."

"That is a lie," shouted Cesario. "I was never chosen to kill President Carnot. Moreover, absolute liberty of action prevails among anarchists."

The prosecuting attorney reviewed at length all the details of the trial and demanded that the jury should not hesitate to do its duty.

M. Dubreuil, counsel for the defense, followed and made an appeal for the prisoner. He tried to convince the jury that Cesario was irresponsible, and made an eloquent plea for the life of his client. Counsel depicted Cesario's mother sitting in her Lombardy home, weeping, her face buried in her hands, sobbing disconsolately: "My son! My son!"

This impressed even the prisoner, who could not restrain his tears.

Prisoner's counsel quickly took advantage of this display of emotion upon the part of the assassin, and instantly urged that the prisoner's stoicism was only assumed, and that he was not dead, after all, to his better feelings. But when M. Dubreuil urged upon the jury that the prisoner was the tool of others Cesario sprang to his feet and fiercely exclaimed:

"That is untrue!"

The prisoner continued his interruptions, and only subsided when the presiding judge threatened to send him back to his cell.

The jury was out but fifteen minutes, and then returned a verdict of "guilty without extenuating circumstances." The prisoner received the verdict with a smile of cynical contempt.

The presiding judge, so soon as the prisoner was acquainted with the jury's finding, arose, and speaking directly to the assassin, said: "The court condemns Cesario Santo Geronimo to death. You have three days in which to appeal to the court of cassation."

To this Cesario returned a scornful shout of "Vive la sociale revolution!"

When the speeches were finished the interpreter read in a monotonous voice Cesario's own statement. It consisted of the usual glorification of anarchy and a reference to his "high motives," etc. The judge ordered it to be suppressed.

As Cesario was being taken from the court room he cried: "Courage, comrades! Vive l'anarchie!"

When, after sentence had been pronounced, M. Dubreuil gave notice of appeal and asked to have placed on record the address of the presiding judge to the jury at the opening of the assize, Cesario refused to sign the request. Nevertheless it was granted.

On returning to his cell Cesario ate his dinner with a good appetite. He said he regretted that he had wept in court, because his comrades would blame his weakness.

The Abbe Grassi, who had been sent by the assassin's family, paid Cesario a final visit in the evening and offered him consolations of religion.

In Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The last of the appropriation bills, the general deficiency, was passed by the senate last evening after it had been under discussion nearly the entire day. The bills for the admission of New Mexico and Arizona to statehood were reported to the senate and placed on the calendar. The house spent a large portion of the day discussing two bills, one for the reclassification of the railway mail clerks and one for the classification of clerks in the first and second class post-offices, but neither was acted upon. The conference report on the river and harbor bill was agreed to without division.

BOLD ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY.

The Narrow Escape of a Diamond Expert in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—In one of the busiest parts of Broadway—at Thirty fourth street—a bold attempt at highway robbery was made at noon. Alexander Newberger has a large jewelry establishment at 1317 Broadway. He is the expert for the New York Jewelers' association. At all times there are a large amount of precious stones in his show cases and safes.

A week ago a man walked in the store and left a large diamond to be reset. Two days ago he carried the set diamond away. He had given the name of Edward Williams. When this man entered the store again yesterday Mr. Newberger was alone, all his clerks having gone to lunch. Williams entered the store hurriedly, with every appearance of anger. He had just made the discovery, he said, that his diamond had been chipped in the setting and he wanted both an explanation and another diamond.

"Impossible," exclaimed Mr. Newberger; "why I set it myself."

The diamond expert took the ring and put his magnifying glass to his eye. As he was about to bend his head to examine it some slight noise caused him to look up. That slight noise saved his life, for a heavy piece of lead pipe held by Williams descended and grazed his head. Had he not turned the pipe would have struck fairly. As it was he was all but stunned, but still had sufficient presence of mind to snatch up a revolver that lay on a shelf behind him, at the same time crying loudly for help.

The revolver or the cry warned Williams that his plot had failed. In an instant he was gone, and would have been lost in the crowded street had not a neighboring storekeeper grabbed the running man. Before Williams could offer any resistance a detective and a policeman, who chanced to be near, pounced upon him, and he was marched to the police station.

Williams described himself as 53 years old, a laborer, and says he came here a week ago from Denver. Beyond this nothing more could be learned. The police believe that the man is a western crank, lately released from some prison.

ROMANCE OF THE DEEP.

A Ship's Crew Given Up for Lost Now Safe in Chile.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—The British ship Cambrian Chief, supposed to have been lost en route to Coquimbo, and on which 25 per cent. was paid several weeks ago for reinsurance, is reported safe in harbor at Taltal, Chile. A letter from Captain Thomas was received here yesterday. Several weeks ago the British ship Dee, from San Francisco, arrived at Valparaiso, having on board the wife and child of Captain Thomas and several of the crew of the Cambrian Chief.

They reported the Cambrian Chief as probably lost. During a terrific gale the vessel had been dismasted. Just at night fall the Dee sighted the Cambrian Chief in distress, and succeeded in getting a boat to her. This boat rescued Mrs. Thomas, her child and several of the Cambrian's crew. A second boat from the Dee was sent back for Captain Thomas and the others of his crew. The gale increased, and in the darkness the Dee lost all trace of her own rescuing crew and the Cambrian Chief.

The second chapter of this thrilling tale of the sea now comes from Captain Thomas. He reports that the gallant rescuers from the Dee reached his vessel in safety. When the dawn came and the Dee was nowhere in sight despair seized the little band of sailors. But finally jury masts were rigged, and at last the Cambrian Chief was got under way. When the Cambrian Chief reached Taltal the sailors had just enough strength left to shorten sail and drop anchor.

Commonwealers Try to Capture a Train.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 4.—Jeffries' Commonwealers, numbering about 200, arrived here last night. When the Baltimore and Ohio freight No. 76 pulled out for the east about 9 o'clock the crowd made a rush to capture it. When about a mile out of the yard the train was stopped and the tramps driven off. They got together on the ground, and with a rush swept down the opposition and crowded into box cars. Then the trimmen, reinforced by yardmen, made a combined charge and another battle ensued. The attacking party were met by a storm of stones, clubs, links, pins and scrap. Yardman George Workman and Cashier Thomas were badly injured. Some of the army escaped, but about 100 were beaten back into the cars and locked in. The train was run back to town and the prisoners jailed.

A Baby's Life Saved.

WALTON, N. Y., April 14, 1894.—When my baby was six months old she was taken very badly with diarrhœa. A doctor came every day for a week. Baby got worse, until she could notice nothing at all. I got so worried I called on our druggists and he recommended Dr. Hand's Diarrhœa Mixture. I got it and just one-half a bottle cured my baby and saved her life.

A VICTIM OF CONSPIRATORS.

An Innocent Man Sent to Prison to Gratify a Woman's Spite.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4.—An application has been filed with Governor Brown for the pardon of George Lorber. He was convicted of arson at Elkton, Cecil county, on Jan. 8, 1889, and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. The witness upon whose testimony Lorber was convicted, after five years' silence, has confessed that she perjured herself at the trial, and that she swore to untruths because her sister made her do so.

The story is both romantic and pathetic. A few weeks prior to Lorber's trial and conviction the house and barn of Isaac Burbank, near Churchville, Harford county, burned to the ground. Suspicion fell on Lorber, who had worked for Burbank, and the fact that he disappeared the night of the fire increased the feeling against him. Popular feeling grew so strong against him that there was talk of lynching.

He was courting Mary Weeks, but her sister Kate took a dislike to him and did all she could to embitter Mary against him. At last she partly succeeded, and threatened that she would get him out of the way if she had to send him to the penitentiary. She got the men about the place down on him, and the night of the fire, at her instigation, they plotted to assault him. Mary informed him of the plot and he went to Aberdeen to escape.

After his departure the house and barn caught fire and was burned to the ground, the family narrowly escaping with their lives. After the fire he claims Kate Weeks, who held some secret over her sister Mary's head, forced her to charge him with the crime, and his arrest followed.

Mary Weeks took the stand and swore that on the night of the fire Lorber told her that he intended setting fire to the house, and soon after it was in flames. A lot of other damaging testimony was produced, and Lorber came very near being sentenced to death.

Four Tramps Probably Cremated.

BUCYRUS, O., Aug. 4.—The west bound freight on the Pennsylvania railroad broke in two in the eastern limits of the city and came together with disastrous results. Five cars of hard coal, one tank of oil, a car of gasoline, and a car of queensware were completely demolished. An explosion of the oil occurred, and in an instant the debris was a mass of flames. Four colored tramps were riding on the oil car at the time of the accident. One of the unfortunate victims was found shortly after burned to a crisp, and the other three are still missing. The one found cannot be identified.

Britannia's Time Allowance Reduced.

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug. 4.—The Britannia and Vigilant were officially measured yesterday preparatory to today's match race. The figures show that the Vigilant carries 1,200 square feet more canvas than the Britannia, and that the latter is a foot longer than the Vigilant on the water line. The Vigilant's rating is 169; the Britannia's 154. The Britannia's time allowance will be reduced to two minutes and four seconds. The Vigilant has forty-five men, while the Britannia has only thirty six.

Urges Relief for Walter Wellman.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Royal Geographical society has received a telegram from Baron Hordenskjold confirming the loss of the steamer Ragnvald Jarl, which conveyed the Wellman expedition to the Polar regions. Baron Hordenskjold says the party that continued northward is likely to return, very much exhausted, to the Swedish house at Mossel Bay. These houses are excellent, but the provisions they contain will not be sufficient. He thinks a relief expedition is desirable.

Surprised at a Light Sentence.

DENVER, Aug. 4.—In the United States district court seven Grand Junction railroad men were convicted by a jury of retarding the mails by refusing to handle trains in which there were Pullman cars. Judge Hallett fined them $10 and costs each. His leniency surprised the American Railway union men, who had watched the trial closely. A large number of Trinidad strikers will now be tried.

Thrown from Her Carriage to Death.

HAZLETON, Pa., Aug. 4.—While Mrs. Gray and her 9-year-old daughter Ida were driving down the mountain side near Sheppton their horse took fright and ran away down the steep road. The carriage was overturned and both were thrown out. Mrs. Gray struck the ground on her head and broke her neck, dying in a few minutes. The child was horribly mangled, but will recover.

Wept as He Walked to His Doom.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 4.—Orange Page, colored, the murderer of Rosa Wood, an aged colored woman, paid the penalty of his crime on the gallows here yesterday. The execution was private. A large crowd of curious people assembled outside the enclosure. Page broke down and sobbed as he was being led to the gallows, and had to be assisted to the platform.

The Doctors Endorse It.

At a regular meeting of the Genesee County (N. Y.) Medical Society, the physicians of the county passed a vote of thanks for samples of Gilmore's Aromatic Wine, which had been presented to the society, and said that they recognized the remedy as being adapted to a large class of summer diseases. Physicians everywhere recommend this excellent medicine, especially to their lady patients. Sold by all druggists for $1.00 per bottle.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. Seventy-five cents. Sold by J. E. Mills, druggist, Middletown.

THE SUGAR SCHEDULE.

This Causes the Hitch in the Tariff Conference.

AN AGREEMENT EXPECTED TODAY

The Senate Conferrees Have Presented a Sugar Schedule Which, While Not Entirely Satisfactory to House Members, Will Probably be Accepted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The understanding among the tariff conferrees when they adjourned last evening was that today's session would bring about either an agreement on the sugar schedule or a decision to report a disagreement. Yesterday was devoted by the conference to a discussion of the sugar question upon the basis of the schedule outlined by the Associated Press. This schedule provides for a duty of 40 per cent. ad valorem on sugar below 16 Dutch standard and 40 per cent. on sugar above this grade, the duty on the refined sugar to be collected on the basis of the saccharine strength of the raw sugar used in it, with one-fifth of a cent differential on the refined and a discriminating duty equal to the export duty levied by such sugar producing countries as pay a bounty on sugar production.

This schedule was submitted to the conference as the ultimatum of the conservative senators, coming through Senator Smith, of New Jersey, and the house conferrees were given to understand that the schedule was the nearest approach to the house requirements that the senate could make with any assurance that the bill would pass in the senate.

Some of the house conferrees are favorably inclined towards the schedule, because they believe that it defines exactly the extra duty to be paid on refined sugars and is free from the objection urged against the senate schedule, that owing to the wording of the schedule it was impossible to tell beyond the one eighth of a cent differential what the duty would be on the refined article. They are of the opinion that the duty in the schedule now presented will be confined to the one-fifth of a cent differential. It is understood, however, that while inclined to accept these figures as the best they can get, and while considering that in this they secure an advantage over the senate schedule, they indicated a desire to consider the question over night, and that it was on this account that the decision was postponed.

A report from an inside source is to the effect that some of the house conferrees found the schedule objectionable from several points of view, and when the time for adjournment was reached had not only failed to indicate a willingness to accept the schedule, but had said that, so far as they had been able to master its details they considered it unacceptable. It was this expression of opinion on their part which left the situation in such doubt when the conference adjourned, and rendered it possible that instead of an agreement being reached the result might be a disagreement. The pressure for a bill is so strong in the party, however, that the probabilities are still favorable to an agreement on some line.

If the expectation that the work before the conferrees on the entire bill can be concluded today is to be realized, the conferrees will have to put in a very long day. While the sugar schedule has been the great stumbling block in the bill, there are various other problems which, while not so intricate, will prove difficult of adjustment. Almost the entire time of the present conference has so far been given to sugar, and no effort has been made to fix rates in any of the other schedules. Many of these have been gone over casually, but it is apprehended that when it comes to putting down the final figures there will be more or less discussion. This will be found to be especially true on the woolen, cotton and metal schedules. The coal and iron ore questions are still among the undetermined problems, and there is no doubt that there will be a locking of horns over them, and much greater delay is possible than is anticipated by the more sanguine.

The senate conferrees think, however, that if an agreement can be reached on sugar it will be possible to have the work so far advanced by the close of the day as to justify the calling in of the Republicans on Monday.

On the floor of the senate, and especially among the leading senators, it was considered as quite definitely determined that the sugar question would be settled on the basis given, and so positive was one senator, who generally takes the lead in such matters, that this would be the immediate result that he told some of his colleagues that he considered final adjournment possible by next Wednesday or Thursday.

The house conferrees came away from the meeting feeling that their work was nearly over. One of them said that a definite statement might be given out tonight.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands can testify. Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but many, if not most, of the remedies in general use afford but temporary relief. A cure certainly cannot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes. Ely's Cream Balm, which is so highly commended, is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power, with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient. The druggists all sell it.

CHINA'S DECLARATION OF WAR

Premier Li Hung Chang Ordered to Punish the Japanese.

TIENTSIN, Aug. 4.—The preamble of an imperial edict just issued recites China's claims in Corea, its hundreds of years suzerainty of that country, and the constant assistance it has rendered the vassal king to subdue rebellions. China, it continues, recently sent forces to Corea with this object in view. Japan, without right, also sent troops and refused to withdraw them. She has further sunk a transport carrying Chinese soldiers, and her action has been condemned by other powers. The emperor places all the military authorities under Viceroy Li Hung Chang, who will protect the rights of the empire. He also orders the capture and destruction of Japanese ships wherever found.

It is reported that there has been a fresh collision between the Japanese and Chinese troops in Corea. It seems that after their recent defeat the Japanese assembled their whole available strength and took the offensive, achieving a decided victory over the Chinese.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—A dispatch has been received here from a German official in Tientsin stating that the German gunboat Iltis rescued 150 Chinese who were struggling in the water after the sinking of the Chinese transport Kow Ching. The victory of the Chinese over the Japanese in the battle fought at Yashan is confirmed.

Lieutenant Maney Finally Acquitted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Secretary Lamont yesterday finally disposed of the case of First Lieutenant James A. Maney, who was tried by court martial as the result of killing Captain Hedberg at Fort Sheridan, near Chicago. The lieutenant had been previously tried and acquitted by the civil courts on a charge of murder. The charge preferred before the court martial was conduct unbecoming an officer in assaulting his superior officer. Of this charge he was found guilty and sentenced to be publicly reprimanded. After a thorough examination of the case, which has been before the department for many weeks, Secretary Lamont endorsed upon the record of the court "disapproved by the department." This finally ends the case and Lieutenant Maney will not be reprimanded nor will he be again tried.

Desperate Fight Between Politicians.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 4.—Ex-Councilman W. P. Cummings was stabbed in the face, neck and body with a penknife in the hands of ex-Alderman George S. Norbeck during a desperate fight between the men last night. The fight occurred in Hostetter's cafe, a resort on the outskirts of the city, and grew out of a personal quarrel. Friends interfered and separated the men, when it was found that Cummings had nine wounds. One of these was in the neck, barely grazing the jugular vein. Another, under the right eye, required nine stitches to close it up. Norbeck's only injury was a black eye. Both men are prominent citizens and politicians.

Governor O'Ferrall Denounces Coxeyites.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Governor O'Ferrall, of Virginia, writes to John W. Mitchell, one of the churchmen engaged in raising money for the relief of the Coxeyites: "I beg to say that if I was disposed to aid the people known as Coxeyites I have no funds at my disposal. In this connection it is proper for me to state that I have no sympathy with these people and regard them as a lot of common idlers who would not work if it were offered them. The Virginia authorities have already been too lenient with them, and the strong arm of the law will not be withheld much longer."

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Encouraging Reports from the Commercial Agencies.

BUSINESS IS SURE TO IMPROVE.

The Near Approach of Definite Action on the Disputed Tariff Question Has Already Encouraged Large Preparations for Increased Production.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: An important change in the state of business is near at hand. Congress will act on the tariff question, one way or the other, in all probability within a week. If it passes the pending bill, or if it fails, in either case the definite basis for future business will enable many to act who are now waiting. Whether the one course or the other would stimulate the greater increase it is certain that either would give relief from present paralyzing uncertainties and cause some increase in business, at least for a time.

So much business has been deferred during the past year, and merchandise stocks have been so reduced that the mere approach of a decision, without certainty what it is to be, has this week encouraged large preparation for increased business. In spite of outgoing gold and sinking treasury reserves, small railroad earnings, some injury to crops and increased trouble in the coke regions, the tone and the outlook are more hopeful.

The injury to crops by hot winds and drought, if as great as some report, will affect all interests, but at this season it is never easy to distinguish between local and general damage. Western receipts of wheat were 6,490,254 bushels, against 4,062,696 last year, which does not encourage notions of a short yield, and exports were only 1,590,563 bushels from Atlantic ports, against 3,135,464 last year. Corn exports were only 118,438 bushels, against 1,593,731 last year, and receipts 1,952,847, against 2,352,978, but it seems undeniable that the crop has sustained considerable injury.

The failures this week have been 219 in the United States, against 436 for the same week last year, and 44 in Canada, against 34 last year.

Bradstreets' says: While little significance is attached to the moderate improvement in trade at San Francisco, Pittsburg, Baltimore, Augusta and Atlanta, when it is added that clearing house totals for July report twenty-nine cities with larger aggregates than in July last year, contrasted with the June report, which contained only eighteen cities with aggregates larger than those in June a year ago, it is perceived that there are influences at work at the interior favoring an increase in the volume of business.

Wheat has advanced in sympathy with corn, on increased orders and reports of crop damage from abroad, while corn's sharp advance is due partly to exaggerated notions of damage from drought. There is little likelihood of the corn crop being smaller than in either of the two preceding years, notwithstanding our advices of 25 per cent damage in Kansas and 40 per cent. in Nebraska. Southern crop prospects generally are excellent.

Probable Fatality at a Ball Game.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 4.—During the State League baseball game between the Lancaster and Allentown clubs in this city yesterday one of the players was severely injured by a ball. It was in the second inning, when James Toman, short stop of the Lancaster club, came to the bat. He was standing ready to receive the balls pitched by Kilroy when one of them struck him on the head, fracturing his skull. It is feared that the injury will prove fatal.

The Minneapolis, the Fastest Cruiser Afloat, Recently Earned a Bonus of $114,600 for Her Builders—How an Extra Quarter Knot May Save the Government Millions.

It costs Uncle Sam many a barrel of money to possess the fastest cruisers and commerce destroyers on the seas; but, although they come high, he feels that he must have 'em. When it was announced recently that the new 23.073 knot cruiser Minneapolis, the fastest warship afloat, had, by developing speed far beyond the contract stipulation, earned a premium for her builders of $114,600, which would increase her cost from $2,690,000 to $3,104,000, many persons doubtless wondered why the government should pay very well for a ship and then donate over $400,000 to her builders because they had turned out a good job. The question is one that is easily answered. Our commerce destroyers are built more for sweeping the merchant vessels of an enemy from the sea than for doing any great amount of fighting, and on the principle that he who fights and runs away will live to fight another day the faster the cruisers are the better they will be able to run away when an enemy of too heavy caliber looms up in pursuit on the horizon.

In such an emergency the $50,000 that has been paid for an extra quarter of a knot of speed may result in saving to the country a $3,000,000 ship. Another view of the situation is that, no matter what merchant vessel or cruiser of equal fighting ability the commerce destroyer may pursue, she is sure to overhaul the valuable prey. During the Revolution and the war of 1812 superior speed on the part of our war vessels was a great factor in their success.

In the first year of the war for American independence the Yankee warship Providence, under the command of gallant John Paul Jones, time and again escaped capture by her ability to outsail the pursuing British frigates. Good sailing also enabled the Reprisal to escape a British ship of line and continue her depredations along the English coast in 1777, and superior speed alone allowed the Lexington, Surprise and Revenge to remain in English waters and sweep away the enemy's commerce in that memorable conflict.

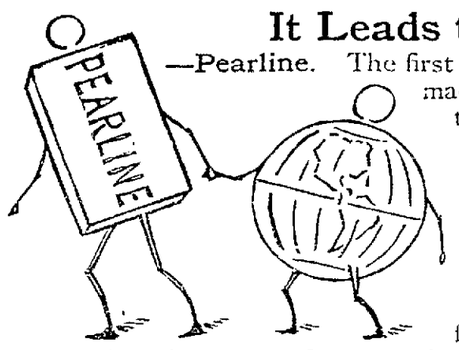

During the war of 1812 the United States navy of barely 17 efficient ships was pitted against 1,000 vessels of the British, and yet by superior speed such famous Yankee cruisers as the President, Essex, Chesapeake, Wasp, Peacock, Enterprise, Siren and Adams scoured the seas where Britannia was supposed to rule and inflicted unprecedented loss upon the king's commerce. In one cruise the Adams was chased five times by British frigates of superior armament and at one time remained within gunshot for 40 hours before she succeeded in getting away. How valuable then was even an extra quarter of a knot of speed!

In 1815 the Hornet was chased for 72 hours by the 74 gun ship of line Cornwallis. Commander Biddle lightened ship by throwing overboard arms, powder and about every movable thing aboard, but he finally succeeded in eluding his big pursuer. At another time the Reprisal escaped by sawing away her bulwarks and throwing overboard her guns and shot. She at once refitted and continued her career of destruction. Running away, however, was not all our gallant ships did, for during the first seven months of the war of 1812 they captured over 50 British armed vessels, 250 merchantmen and 3,000 prisoners.

The premium and penalty system, which has given the navy such excellent ships, was introduced by Secretary Whitney. Since then 17 vessels have earned in premiums the big sum of $2,264,586, according to the New York Sun, and vessels awaiting trial will increase the sum to an even 3,000,000. Among the 10 contract ships remaining to be tried is the torpedo boat Ericsson, which must show a speed of 24 knots. She will receive $2,500 for every quarter knot she makes above 24, and if she exceeds 25 knots $3,500 per quarter beyond that point. She will probably displace the Minneapolis as the navy's fastest ship. The ram Katadin will receive $15,000 for each quarter knot beyond the contract stipulation of 17 knots, and the gunboats Penguin, Albatross and Porpoise are to get $20,000 for a full knot in excess of the contract speed.

The battleships Indiana, Oregon and Massachusetts, built for fighting and not running away, will receive $25,000 per quarter knot above 15 knots. The gunboat Castine earned $50,000 premium and the Machias and Bancroft $45,000 each. In the case of all these ships similar deductions are made provided they fail to develop contract speed.

The Minneapolis is 412 feet long, 58 feet beam, 22 feet 6½ inches draft and displaces 7,350 tons. She can carry 2,200 tons of coal. Her armament consists of one 8 inch 40 caliber rifle, two 6 inch, eight 4 inch, eight six pounders, four one pounders and four gatling guns.

It Leads the World

—Pearline. The first washing-compound ever made, and the best. Proved to be absolutely harmless to anything that is washed—both by the women who have used it for years, and by scientific tests.

But the enormous demand for Pearline—for something that will save work and yet be safe to use, has started a host of washing-powders, all imitations of Pearline. They ought to make women think. If you can get risky help from a poor imitation, why not get safe help from the original and the best? If you used the cheapest washing-powder for a year, instead of Pearline, you couldn't save enough to pay your loss in one ruined garment. 407 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson: I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell himwhat to do. I wanted to tell him whatI needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess,

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

YOUNG AT EIGHTY-FIVE.

Professor Blackie Is Spry as a Cricket and as Fond of Life as Ever.

Professor John Stuart Blackie, the eminent Scotch classical scholar and author, is 85 years of age, but is still as spry as a cricket and as fond of life as he was at 25. His friends call him "the grand old man" of Scotland and declare that he is the greatest man now living in the land of Bobby Burns. His rugged, strong face is framed in a great mass of silvery white hair that ripples far down over his collar, and his eyes are so bright and powerful that glasses are strangers to them. He takes long walks about Edinburgh in all sorts of weather, wears his wide brimmed hat indoors as well as out and glorifies Greek to any one who will listen.

PROFESSOR BLACKIE.

Greek is his hobby. He believes it is the greatest language the world has ever known, and he is as familiar with it as he is with the queen's English. He has the best Greek library in Great Britain. He takes Greek newspapers and devours their contents. He has loved Greek for over 60 years and has taught the language for nearly half a century. His friends declare that he dreams in Greek.

He is as modest as he is active. "What have I done?" he said recently. "I've taught Greek, written a little and preached a great deal." In these few words does the scholar, poet, student, philosopher, teacher, orator, lawyer, lover of the classics and champion of human progress sum up a useful career of fourscore and five years.

Professor Blackie was born in Glasgow, entered college at 12 and later studied at Edinburgh university under John Wilson (Christopher North) and after years of toil returned to the university as professor of Greek. At 25 he was admitted to the bar, but turned his back on the law at 30. He has written many interesting and instructive books and holds high rank as a Greek scholar.

KOREA AND HER KING.

The Hermit Nation That China, Japan, England and Russia Are All After.

Uneasy rests the head that wears Korea's crown. With Chinese, Japanese and English troops in his kingdom, an unsubdued rebellion among his subjects, and China, Japan, England and Russia all eagerly waiting an opportunity of deposing him and stealing his territory, his majesty Li seems to be between several satanic majesties and numerous deep seas. Korea has long been known as the "Hermit Nation" on account of her hatred of foreigners, and as the "little brother of China" on account of her dependency to that empire.

Koreans have for many years acknowledged China's right to dictate what their king's policy shall be, and China has been so jealous of her absolute control over her little brother that when Korea desired to raise a loan of $1,500,000 in New York four years ago her consul warned American capitalists not to furnish the money. A great many Chinese and Japanese live in Korea, and Japan has always regarded with disfavor the dependency of Korea to China. Last March Kim-ok-Kuin, a Korean refugee who had fled to Japan and become a citizen, foolishly went to Shanghai, where he was assassinated by Koreans who had been following him for years. Japan thought China winked at the murder. At the same time anti-Japanese riots occurred in Korea, and China promptly rushed her troops across the border to suppress the trouble. In April last unjust taxation caused a Korean revolution. China again sent her troops, and Japan followed suit, fearing that China proposed openly seizing the country. This fact and popular indignation in Japan over the assassination of Kim-ok-Kuin have caused Japan to lock horns with China in a struggle for the possession of Korea.

Russia desires to annex Korea because she would thus be greatly strengthened on the Pacific, as Korea's harbors are much better than those of Vladivostok, her southernmost port and terminus of her proposed transsiberian railroad. England wants Korea because her policy is to take everything in sight, provided it be unable to defend itself. The United States is also mixed up in the affair, but only as a proposed mediator in bringing about an amicable arrangement between Japan, China and Korea.

A Railroad of Iron.

A railroad which the Germans have built in Asia Minor, extending from Ismid, a harbor about 60 miles east of Constantinople, east by south 309 miles to Angora, has as little wood in it perhaps as any in the world. Not only the rails and bridges, but the ties and telegraph poles, are of iron.

THERE'S DANGER

In a cough—more than ever when your blood is "bad." It makes things easy for Consumption. But there's a cure for it in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. A positive cure—not only for Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma and all lingering Coughs, but for Consumption itself in all its earlier stages. It's reasonable. All these diseases depend on tainted blood.

MODERN DRAMATIC CHANGES.

Unfavorable Comparison of the Characters of the Stage.

The other night a man went to the theater who had not been there for years, and he couldn't make it out. First of all he missed the simple village youth, the virtuous hero who was wont to take the first prize at the Horticultural society, or else win the guerdon at quoits, or something or other in the rustic revels. But worst of all he missed the dear old fashioned villain, and although this play had a tremendous villain in it our friend was not impressed with him a bit. He sighs thus:

"I came away again, sadly disappointed. The play was not what I expected. I shall go no more to the playhouse. The palmy days of the drama are over. The theater has fallen into the sere and yellow fifth act, and there is no health in it.

"The theater has followed the path of literature, and the good old things are changed. I beheld a lot of swell people in evening dress on the stage. They spoke quietly to one another, very much as people do off the stage and in very much the same sort of language.

"This is not what I want when I go to the theater.

"What is the theatrical villain of today? Is he a real, good old fashioned ruffian? Does he ever drag a helpless maiden from the domiciliary roof of her ancestors by the hair? No, sir!

"Does he ever say to the hero, 'Say one word, and thou art food for the wolves?' Does he ever grab the heroine by the wrist, drag her down the stage in three long strides, slam her down in a big chair, bend over her and whisper fiendishly: ''Sdeath, maiden; but, by my soul, I love thee! Thou shalt be mine! Yield, or by heaven'——

"That's all I know of that speech, because 'by heaven, I'll' is the cue for the maiden to spring up, and, throwing the 12 stone villain half way across the stage, to say: 'Unhand me, ruffian! And know that rather than mate with such as thou I'd cast myself from yonder battlement into the foaming flood beneath!'

"And does the villain then say: 'Now, by heaven, I like thy spirit! I love thee all the more for it!'

"And does the maiden say, 'Merciful powers, protect me!'

"And does the door open and the hero rush in armed with a good blunt broadsword?

"And then do he and the villain fence up and down the stage sixes, eights, shoulder blows, cut and thrust?

"Oh, no!

"These things have given way to swallowtailed coats and high collars, and the villain is now as big a swell as any fellow in the show.

"Oh, for the good old palmy days of the drama when the broadsword ruled and there was gore!

"The modern drama is too much like ice cream after a heavy dinner—cold and unsatisfying."—Pearson's Weekly.

ONLY A WAIF.

But the Gates Will Surely Be Ajar For Him In the Other World.

Uncle John Thorpe stood among his flowers one morning thinking how much better they were than the money that bought them.

The front door opened slightly, and there came through the crevice a very small boy, much tattered as to clothes and having streaks of the town dirt across his face.

He saw Uncle John back among the flowers and said:

"Mister."

"What is it?"

"Say, I want a rose," and he held out a penny.

"For a cent?"

"Dat's all I can blow."

"You'd better let me give you a carnation. It looks just as well in a gentleman's buttonhole," with a smile.

"No kiddin, mister. I ain't wearin flowers. It's for me pardner."

"Your partner?"

"De kid dat's always been wid me. He's out in t'e hospital, and I t'ought he'd like to have a rose."

Uncle John picked out the rarest and sweetest rose of all and took the penny. The boy went away with the great nodding blossom hugged against his torn waist, and Uncle John was left with the reflection that there are some things in the world as beautiful as flowers.

It was a week later when the door again opened, and the same tattered boy, his face unnaturally clean, came in and once more found Uncle John at home among his flowers.

"Mister."

"Hello, here! The boy that bought the rose. How's your partner?"

"Dat's what I came in about. He's dead."

"That's too bad."

"Say, mister, do you make dem 'Gates Ajar' t'ings for to put on coffins?"

"Yes, sometimes."

"Well, t'e boys have chipped in for one, and here's t'e stuff." And he opened his right hand, which was heaping full of pennies and nickels.

Uncle John gathered together the coins and counted them. The total was 76 cents.

"We t'ought for dat we could get somethin purty nice for t'e kid."

"Yes, indeed. Come this afternoon."

The boy went away undeceived. Uncle John as he wired together the green strands and the rich clusters of bloom again reflected, and his reflection was that the gates must be ajar for such "kids."—Chicago Record.

Artificially Red Oranges.

Blood oranges are now prepared artificially. They are even richer in flavor than the regulation red orange of nature. An ordinary orange is punctured, and a small quantity of California claret is injected by means of a powerful syringe. The wine is drawn up into the pulp of the fruit by means of the capillary attraction and gives the orange the deep red so admired by connoisseurs.—New York Herald.

SEVERE ON AMERICANS.

How One of John Bull's Watchful Organs Sizes Up Some American Subjects.

Except a Yorkshireman there is no more self conscious person than your untraveled American. He knows everything. You can't take him in. He comes from the biggest country in the world. His smartness is proverbial. He does not continually exclaim, "I am a Yankee, I am," but he metaphorically waves his flag in the face of an effete civilization and trails his egotism before the darned old country all the time, you bet! And it is done surely and persistently. Every whipper snapper of a sneak thief has him. Notwithstanding the staleness of the confidence trick in his own country, he is a prey to the first American sharper or the clumsiest imitator of the Yankee methods whom he meets in street or barroom. The papers lately have contained several instances of the successful practice of the confidence trick on Americans. The wonder is that any one can be fleeced so easily.

Imagine any sane person being induced to hand over his watch and his purse to a total stranger and letting him go out of sight to test his faith in the said stranger—"to show his confidence" in a man he does not care a button about, and whose acquaintance he has only just made. This happened the other day in Holborn to an American gentleman who parted with watch, ring and notes to the value of nearly £300. The story began by one of two confidence men spotting him for an American in Holborn and asking him, "Say, stranger, is this a new street?"

The two men were Americans; they came from Virginia; the dupe was from New Jersey. Of course they all adjourned to the restaurant to have a drink. The first Virginia gentlemen had come into a large fortune and wanted to give a lot of it away, but not to Britishers—oh, no—but to his own countrymen.

The Jersey gentleman was induced to undertake the office of my lord bountiful to the millionaire and was permitted for a time to hold possession of a great bundle of spurious notes. Then, to show his confidence in his new friends, he handed over all he had about him, and they presently decamped with his money, "jewels, cash and plate." He had to go home before the police could catch the masqueraders, but on reaching New York he will be asked by cable to keep the promise he made that he would return and prosecute them if the dull London detectives could lay hands on the astute operators from Virginia.

And this kind of thing is going on continually. The credulity of people in general says a great deal for the trustfulness and sympathy of humanity as a whole. Cynics would say that it may be taken as still more indicative of its greed. It certainly says little for its caution. The most transparent swindles of the day in the direction of companies, partnerships, offers of fortunes for a few pounds, successful systems of betting and speculation catch their dupes day by day, and Monte Carlo is extending its palatial halls.—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

WILD BILL A SOLID MAN.

The Body of the Famous Desperado Had Turned to Stone.

The climate of Colorado is so exceedingly dry in the greater portion of the state that ordinary objects, such as potatoes, vegetables of various sorts and even small animals, petrify when covered with sand. The body of Wild Bill, the famous desperado, is today solid stone. He was buried in a sandy country near Telluride, and about four years ago his friends decided to put up a monument to his memory. They went out to his grave, which is in the open prairie, and one of the party, an old scout, was taken along to exactly locate where he was buried. The sand had shifted and blown in great heaps, as it does all through that country, and the scout had a good deal of difficulty in absolutely locating the spot. Finally he struck a mound that he said had Wild Bill under it.

Owing to the uncertainty of the situation and his hesitancy, the party decided to dig down and see whether he was right. Presently the spade ran into a rock—a scarce thing in that country. They shoveled all around it, and soon revealed the petrified image of Wild Bill, as perfect as the day he died, with not a trace of decomposition. Even the clothes and shoes were turned to stone. Some of the parties wanted to take the body up for the purposes of exhibition. But one of Bill's old pals, Shorty Jake, as he was called, remarked that the first man who tried to do so would find a bed in the hole that Bill filled. So the idea was abandoned.—Washington Post.

Lost a Small Fortune.

There was quite a crowd around a coalhole in the sidewalk, and it was soon learned that a lady who was passing had stepped into the uncovered hole, and they were getting her out. She was not hurt in the least, but rather frightened and dusty. A male relative who accompanied her was executing a series of gymnastics around her.

"Sure you're not hurt, Addie?" he asked anxiously.

"Not a bit, Richard."

"No sprains or broken bones?"

"Not one. You see, I was caught by a man who was passing, and that saved me from being hurt."

"Where is the officious wretch?"

"Richard, he is my deliverer!"

"Deliverer nothing! If you had just broken one little bone, we could have sued the city and recovered $10,000 damages."—Detroit Free Press.

Big Worms.

A waggish farmer in Ohio killed 40 black snakes and buried them in a sandpit. The next day he sent his hired man, a Swede, to dig fishworms in the same place, and the size of the worms frightening the poor fellow nearly out of his senses he fled in terror from the scene.—New York Ledger.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 4, 1894.

The Constitutional Convention has decided against local option in the regulation of the liquor traffic. Mr. Jacob M. Mabee, of Sullivan, among others, made a speech in which he pointed out that the granting of local option would result in the saloons of New York being open all the time, including nights and Sundays.

The commercial situation is rapidly becoming more favorable. Decisive action on the tariff is near at hand. Whether Congress passes a new bill or whether it fails, a stable basis for future business will be established and many who have held back for months will now be enabled to act. Orders have been withheld so long and stocks have become reduced to so low a stage, that the moment the incubus of uncertainty is thrown off there will be a rush to buy and the mills will scarcely be able to supply the demand. A change for the better is close at hand.

Mr. Wellman has met the fate of the other Arctic explorers, who have preceded him. He has become involved in a most hazardous predicament, by his vessel being crushed in the ice and now something must be done for the relief of himself and his party. Arctic explorers ought to organize two expeditions; one to do the exploring and another to rescue them after they have become involved in the inevitable disaster. It costs too much time, money and worry to hunt up an explorer who has got stranded in the icy waters of the frozen North. The Government should either prohibit exploring excursions in search of the North Pole, or see that the explorer has made adequate provision at his own expense for his rescue, before he is allowed to depart.

The recent reduction of steerage rates across the Atlantic to $10 has had the effect of stimulating eastward travel to such an extent that the steamship companies have found it difficult to provide accommodations, and as a consequence rates will soon be advanced to $15. The exceedingly low rates that have been given have made an opportunity for many to visit their old homes and relatives on the other side; while undoubtedly some have considered that under the prevailing business depression in the United States, their prospects of making a livelihood in the old world are much brighter. Trans-Atlantic travel, however, is now so easily, cheaply and speedily made, that a rush one way or the other does not have much more significance than has similar excess of travel on our great trunk railroad lines either eastward or westward. Though the tide of emigration may be for the moment away, it is likely to turn toward us again as quickly as it departed. The ocean has become merely a great ferry, which people cross without much thought or excuse. Ocean travel is vastly different from what it was in the old days, when a man invariably made his will before he sailed.

A correspondent of the New York Times, who has just traversed the western and southern sections of Kansas, gives a distressing account of the effects of drought and hot winds in those parts. He says he found entire counties without so much as a wagonload of green stuff growing from the ground. Corn in some of the fine, rich valleys, which ten days ago gave promise of eighty and ninety bushels per acre, will not produce as much as a bushel to a hundred acres. Thousands and thousands of acres have not a green blade or a tassel of corn silk. The great Arkansas Valley, one of the richest west of the Missouri River, with its great underflow of water, is to-day a vast desolate waste. Hundreds of square miles of fine crops have been burned up in less than three days and the cornstalks are scarcely worth cutting for fodder, as all the blades will fall to pieces as soon as handled. The region is in what used to be called the great American desert and the crops are always uncertain, a good yield being obtained only about once in seven years. The report would indicate that this year's crop had met with an unusually overwhelming disaster.

VIGILANT WINS

The Brittannia Beaten by Three Minutes, Twenty eight Seconds.

By United Press.

COWES, Aug. 4.—The Vigilant and Britannia started in the race over the course of the Royal Yacht Squadron, to-day. The course had to be sailed over twice, making forty-eight miles. The prize cup is valued at 100 guineas. The weather is cloudy with rain, and there is a brisk southwest wind. The Vigilant drew away from the Britannia at the start, rounding the second mark of the first round nearly six minutes ahead.

An immense concourse of people witnessed the race from the shore. Crafts of every description were at the starting point when the race started and followed the contestants over the course. The Vigilant was enthusiastically cheered when she crossed the line a winner. The cheering of the Vigilant was done chiefly by Americans.

The finishing time of the Vigilant was 2 h., 36 m. and 15 s.; Britannia 2 h., 41 m. and 43 s., allowing the Britannia 2 m. and 4 s., the Vigilant wins by nearly 2 minutes and a half.

The official announcement is that the Vigilant wins by 5 m. and 28 s., actual time, and deducting time allowance by 3 m. and 24 s.

THE SUGAR SCHEDULE.

Position of the Louisiana Senators on the Question.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The Louisiana delegation has emphatically protested against the new sugar schedule. Senator Caffery called on Senator Jones to-day and denounced the schedule as being antagonistic to the growers. He urged that a bounty be paid on the crop of '94 but the conferees refuse this. Caffery declares that the Louisiana delegates will oppose the proposed schedule. It is rumored that two populist senators have pledged themselves to the Louisiana senators to vote against the proposed sugar schedule.

—A number of the friends in this city, of Miss Nellie Buchanan, of Binghamton, have received invitations to her wedding, which will take place at noon on Thursday, August 16th, when she will become the bride of Mr. George C Harris.

Broke His Leg.

Warren K. Ridgeway slipped on a pebble in the Baptist Church, in Port Jervis, Wednesday, and fell and broke his thigh bone.

GAVE FALSE NAMES.

Secured Release in Police Court by Claiming the Names of Other People.

The residents of Myrtle avenue, near Grand avenue, were highly entertained, yesterday afternoon, by a scrimmage, in which a husband, wife and another woman figured, and in which an umbrella in the hands of the man (?) was badly demolished by being used as a club over the head and shoulders of the wife.

Officer Wilson, who resides in the neighborhood, was called, and when he attempted to arrest the man he was set upon by both women. He soon got the nippers on the man, however, and brought the pair to police headquarters, where a charge of disorderly conduct was preferred against them.

The man gave the name of a respectable young man living near Mechanicstown, who is well connected, and as he was apparently very penitent, the Recorder listened to the tearful pleadings of the wife and allowed them both to go.

The police have since discovered, however, that the man gave a false name, and they claim to have identified the man as a well known painter, and have learned that the woman is not his wife.

The police are on the lookout for the pair, and if caught again it will go hard with them.

A SEVEN-YEAR-OLD PRISONER.

Arrested by a United States Marshal for Robbing the Newburgh Post Office

Edward Archer, aged seven years, of Newburgh, is in Ludlow street jail in Brooklyn. He is the boy who confessed to breaking a pane of glass at the post office and stealing money from the till. He was caught in the act and gave away several of his pals who shared in the stolen money. The others all denied having any part in the matter, and as the Archer boy was the only witness against them, they were discharged and a United States marshal took Edward to New York to await trial before a commissioner.

HYMENEAL

Jackson—Crans.

Mr. Edward Jackson, of this city, and Miss Lizzie Crans, of Bullville, were united in marriage by Rev. F. A. Heath, at his residence on Mulberry street, July 19th.

Livery Stock at Low Prices.

Charles W. Faulkner, to-day, sold for Charles J. Everson, under foreclosure of a chattel mortgage, several horses, wagons, sleighs and a lot of harness, being a portion of the livery stock of M. M. Titus, at the street car stables on North street.

Everything sold at exceedingly low prices. The horses brought from $16 to $24, and wagons and buggies brought from $2 to $5, and other goods in about the same proportion. A large side-seat wagon sold for $2 50.

Don't Obstruct the Cars.

Truckmen have several times, lately, delayed the passage of the electric cars on North street, by backing their trucks against the curb and thereby obstructing the tracks. Captain Grier has requested us to publish the following section, No. 426 of Penal Code:

Any person who wilfully obstructs, hinders or delays the passage of any car, lawfully running upon any steam, or horse or street railroad, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Time to Harvest Your Weeds.

The crops of weeds along the sidewalks about town are about ripe and should be cut. In some places the weeds are as high as a grown person's waist and a lady can hardly pass along the streets without soiling her dress with dust in dry weather, or have it bedraggled after a rain, or when the dew is on the weeds.

Among the worst spots in town are West Main street and Hanford street, near the railway crossing.

Motorman Arrested for Manslaughter.

Walter Whitaker, the motorman on the car which killed Hiram Bishoh, in Newburgh, Thursday afternoon, was arrested, yesterday, on a charge of manslaughter and held in $1,000 bail for his appearance before the Grand Jury.

The Opening of Midway Park.

It had been decided to have the formal opening of Midway Park, on August 22nd, but as that is the date of the merchants' clambake, the managers of the road have postponed the opening until Aug. 25th, so as not to interfere with the bake.

No Car to Midway To-day.

It was expected that the electric road would be completed to Midway Park, so that an experimental run could be made to-day, but owing to some hindrances, the trolley wire has been put up only to Mechanictown.

Just Married.

How loving they are; this is always a sure sign. After the first year sometimes it don't hold good. When Charles comes home to you grouty and cross, snapping and snarling, unable to relish the nice dinner you have cooked, and feels as if there was a ton of pig iron in his stomach, he is troubled with dyspepsia, and Sulphur Bitters is the only medicine that will cure him.

AN IMAGINATIVE SCRIBE.

A Huge, but Improbable Joke on Middletown at Which Port Jervis Laughs.

Some member of the Port Jervis Gazette's editorial staff, in the absence of news, yesterday, brought his inventive talent into play and concocted a yarn that doubtless delighted those Port Jervisites who are envious of Middletown.

It was to the effect that a Middletown man and a Port Jervis lady were in Galveston, Tex. They wanted to send some packages home and went to an express office to do so. The lady asked the clerk if he could send a package to Port Jervis and his reply was:

"Oh yes, we can send matter to Port Jervis just as well as New York and Chicago or any of the leading points in the north."

The poor Middletowner, however, was crushed completely when told by the clerk that he had never heard of such a place as Middletown, but would make inquiries and if there was such a town his company would find it.

The Gazette's story is very amusing. It will amuse Port Jervis people because they will regard it as a good joke on Middletown. It will amuse Middletown people because it is such a very poor attempt at a joke.

TO HOTELS AND BOARDING HOUSE KEEPERS.

The O. and W.'s Proposition to Publish a Book of Photographs.

The O. and W. contemplates issuing a book containing photographs of hotels and boarding houses along its route if the owners of such will co-operate with them. This is in response to an expressed wish of many New York and Brooklyn people who wish to get some idea of the place they are to spend the summer.

The company will send out a photographer if enough people accept its terms to justify the effort.

The pictures will be half toned photographs, 2¼x2¾ inches and will cost $1 for houses accommodating five people or less; $1.50 for six to twenty-four people; $2 for twenty-five to forty-nine people and $3 for houses accommodating fifty or more people.

The Board of Charities

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Charities was held yesterday afternoon.

The only business transacted was the auditing of the following bills:

Superintendents disb'ts	$ 62 39
Chas. Wolf & Son, suit, John Powers	8 00
Hanford & Horton, Excise Stationery	6 08
J. J. O'Brien, Do.	23 50
Thrall Hospital	3 50
Total	$103 47

A Safe Robbed in Broad Daylight.

The Port Jervis papers yesterday, made public the fact that a sum of money was stolen from the safe in Jones' drug store, in Broad daylight on Saturday of last week. The robbery was kept quiet in the hope of obtaining information against the thief.

A number of bills and a check for $5 in a pocketbook, and a buckskin bag containing a quantity of silver, about $90 in all was taken.

To Mobilize the National Guard

From a prominent officer it is learned that there is a possibility of a grand mobilization of the National Guard force in September next, but whether in New York city or some more central location, it is said, has not been determined upon.—New York Sun.

Middletown Musicians in Demand in Sullivan County.

Prof. Roescher went to Monticello, yesterday, and will play for Miss Stewart's carnival from August 6th to 11th. He will then go to Liberty to play at the Wawonda House, and as he will be absent some time has dismissed his summer classes.

Recorder's Court.

Mary Anderson was arrested, this afternoon, for keeping a disorderly house on Fulton Street, and her mother, Charlotte Anderson, for disorderly conduct, the complainant being Fannie Van Fleet. Mrs. Anderson was ordered to leave town, and Mary to close up her establishment, and the police instructed to see that the order is complied with.

Useful as Well as Ornamental.

Four ominous-looking muskets in an old walnut rack can be seen by the visitor to the United States Sub treasury who takes a peep over the shoulders of the cashier. Being in a mood to twit, a visitor made inquiry as to how many centuries had passed since the "rusty flint-locks" had been loaded and was rather taken aback when informed that the pieces were taken down every night, reloaded and stacked in the centre of the room, facing the entrance, so that the office is ready for serious "business" at any time.—Philadelphia Call.

The torture of dyspepsia and sick headache, the agonizing itching and pain of salt rheum, are removed by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

The August Exodus Begun—One Way to Assemble a Crowd—She Did Not Know We Had a Fire Department—An Argument in Favor of Female Suffrage.

From a special correspondent

—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gott left town, on Wednesday, for Indian Lake, where they will spend the month of August. They were accompanied by Miss Alice Sayer, of Goshen, and Miss Ophelia Greer, of New York.

—Miss Laura Frost and Miss Julia Grier left, on Thursday, for the Catskills, where they will spend a part of the month.

—Rev. R. B. Clark is the guest of Mr. Kelsey. He will conduct the services in the Presbyterian Church, to-morrow, and return on Monday to the Adirondacks, where he will spend the remainder of the month.

—Mr. Joseph Taylor, of Jersey City, has been spending the week at St. James's rectory.

—How quickly a crowd assembles when there is a fire. Just before the alarm was on Monday, when the outbuildings in the rectory grounds became ignited, there was scarcely a person to be seen on the street, and within a few moments the whole neighborhood was alive with people of all sorts and conditions who seemed to come out of the earth like the seventeen-year locusts. One, evidently a "summer boarder," remarked pityingly to the writer that she always felt sorry when a fire got started in a small country place like Goshen, for there were so few facilities for extinguishing it. Her interlocutor, who always believes in letting people think what they please, because it is such a comfort to them, said nothing but smiled internally. Just then our firemen made their appearance and the blaze, which had already been partially extinguished by amateur talent, was quickly a thing of the past. She then turned and gazed upon the countenance of the summer boarder and it was a blank.

—One argument in favor of woman's suffrage is the fact, which the writer recently saw stated, that out of forty-two infants who recently were ushered into this vale of tears only two were boys. If the woman of the future is to be in the proportion of thirty-eighty to two men the gentler sex will certainly have things pretty much their own way. G. H.

WILL SUE FOR FALSE ARREST

A Goshen Man Charges a Stranger With Stealing a Horse, and Causes His Arrest—The End Not Yet.

Yesterday morning, Alonzo Coleman, of Goshen, while driving to Howell's creamery, met a man riding horseback, who inquired the way to Goshen.

Coleman directed the man and then accused him of having a stolen horse in his possession.

The man denied the charge. He said his name was Samuel McCouch and his home in Bethel, Sullivan county; that the horse belonged to him and he had been pasturing it at Nathaniel Roe's, near Florida, where he had worked for two months.

Coleman drove on to the creamery and returned to Goshen, and saddling a horse started in pursuit of McCouch, who had gone towards Phillipsburgh.

He overtook the man and made him return to Goshen, where he was arrested.

An effort was made to communicate with Mr. Roe, but was unsuccessful. Coleman then told McCouch he could go, but he didn't. Instead he remained to seek legal advice to recover damages for false arrest.

Erie Passengers Who Don't Pay Fare.

A young man of this city who has an abundance of time on his hands, on Thursday counted the tramps who passed over the Erie on freight trains. The number going east was 138, and on two west bound trains there were thirty-three. This does not include knights of the road who pass through here after dark, when more freight trains pass than in daylight.

Keeping North Street Clean.

The committee appointed to call on the merchants on North street have finished their work and report that with one or two exceptions they have received the names of every business firm to the proposed plan of keeping the street perfectly clean at all times and dispose of the street sprinkler. Every one interested is asked to attend a meeting, Monday evening next, Aug. 6, at 8 o'clock sharp, at the office of A. V. N. Powelson to perfect arrangements and select a committee to take charge of the work. BY ORDER COMMITTEE.

To Cleanse the System

Effectually yet gently, when costive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, to dispel headaches, colds or fevers use Syrup of Figs.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the grand discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

A HINDOO POEM.

A Hindoo died a happy thing to do
When fifty years united to a shrew.
Released, he hopefully for entrance cries
Before the gates of Brahma's paradise.
"Hast been through purgatory?" Brahma said.
"I have been married!" and he hung his head.
"Come in! come in! and welcome, too, my son.
Marriage and purgatory are as one."
In bliss extreme he entered heaven's door
And knew the bliss he ne'er had seen before.
He scarce had entered in the garden fair,
Another Hindoo asked admission there.
The self same question Brahma asked again,
"Hast been through purgatory?" "No. What then?"
"Thou canst not enter," did the god reply.
"He who went in there was no more than I."
"All that is true, but he has married been
And so on earth has suffered for his sin."
"Married? 'Tis well, for I've been married twice."
"Begone? We'll have no fools in paradise."
—Charles Hills in Home and Country.

A PIECE OF CLOTH.

When I was on the detective force—by the way, my name is Jack Hindson, at your service—I had a case on my hands that baffled me. I wanted to get on, for I was at that time engaged to Kitty Pease, and she had said that though she was very fond of me she did not mean to marry me until I had enough to marry on, which I should have as soon as I had found out the party who committed a certain murder.

Mrs. Jeffries, a rich, miserly sort of old lady, had been found dead in her bed, murdered by some one. No one knew who it was.

Everybody was under suspicion—a manservant who had been dismissed weeks before; a dissipated nephew, who had quarreled with her; a peddler; a man who had mended the roof. But it seemed likely that no one would be actually proved guilty. To be sure, the nephew would come in for her property, being her only relative, but though he had been to the door that evening he had been seen to go away again, and no doors were found unlocked, and the servant had to call for help before the bedroom door could be broken in.

The only clew I had was a bit of black cloth clutched tight in the dead woman's hand—a fine bit of old black broadcloth torn in quite a singular shape. We hid the fact that this had been found from the newspaper men, and I was looking for the coat it had been pulled out of. That would be my chance.

The dismissed servant was a waiter, but I bribed myself into a chance of seeing his black coat off duty, and it had not been torn or patched. I hunted up the nephew's boarding house and got into his room under pretense of having been sent from the telegraph office to see the wires, but his clothes were all of thick, coarse cloth. I talked these things all over to Kitty, and she set her wits to work to help me. She asked me to let her go to the old lady's home and show her the room she slept in, and she went out on the roof, as I had done many a time, and went along first in one direction and then in another, looking at all the scuttle doors, until I thought she would go off into the street, but she stopped at the last of the row and beckoned me. I hurried up.

Close to the scuttle door lay a little black button.

"This belongs to the garment the bit of cloth came from," she said. "There are blacks and blacks. This is a button that matches that black. Not a blue black, nor a brownish black, nor a foxy black, but a black that is almost invisible green. Do you know No. 100?"

"It's a very respectable first class boarding house," said I.

"Will they take ladies?" she asked.

"If they are well introduced."

"I shall go there to board."

Next day I got a card from her—she hadn't been in the habit of having cards—with that address on it. I called. She came down to see me in her best black silk, with her bonnet and mantilla on.

There was an old lady in the room. She introduced me to her and then said she was ready. I took the hint. We went out together.

"Of course you know why I came here," she said. "I'm spending all my salary and wearing my best clothes, but I've found something out already. Mrs. Jeffries' nephew calls here sometimes. He calls on a young widow, who has the upper front room. He has been engaged to her for some time."

She paused a long time and then said: "He was here the night of the murder."

"Well!" I said. "Has she let him out upon the roof?"

"I wish you wouldn't ask me any questions," said Kitty. "I shall know before long. When I send for you, come at once. Will you let me have that bit of cloth?"

"It's more precious than diamonds," I said.

Her answer was:

"Yes, I know it." She put it into her pocketbook. "I have changed my room," she remarked. "I am next to her. There is a locked door between us. That is all. And I have made a peephole."

"You are a born detective, but as this widow is respectable you can't watch young Jeffries that way."

"Yesterday," she said without answering me, "Jeffries called. I saw him coming up the street and hid behind a screen in the parlor. I should have pretended to be asleep in a chair there had I been seen, but no one found me out. She came in, and he talked like an immense fool.

"He [illegible] woman has done me another [illegible] getting herself murdered, forsooth. He [illegible] suspected, because I stood to be her death. Why, what on earth take me for? I wonder who killed me. They say nothing was gone."

"Why, you ought to be thankful that the crippled creature is dead," she said. "She's no common burglar, of course. She'd scream and shriek if she saw one at her jewel case and go herself killed.'

"'Well, poor old woman, I'd have been his death if I had been near,' Jeffries said. 'She wasn't half bad. She never made a will and left things away from me, as she might, after I told her I'd never cringe to her for her favor. Hang it, I wish I wasn't her heir! People will suspect me secretly perhaps. I can prove I wasn't inside the house that night, but you know how the papers talked. Poor Bitzner, the roofer, came to me and cried over what they said about him. Kill Aunt Jessy! Why, good Lord!'——

"'You used to call her Aunt Jezebel,' said the widow. Mrs. Mull is her name.

"'Yes, I'm sorry I did, but she had a temper,' said Mr. Jeffries. 'I've a mind not to take the money.'

"'Then I shan't take you,' said Mrs. Mull. 'Such an idiot! I should be ashamed of you.

"See here!" Kitty handed me an address on a piece of paper. It was Mrs. Preston Mull, at a certain number, Chestnut street. "It is her mother-in-law. Can you send our Mrs. Mull—Eliza Mull—a telegram saying, 'Come at once to this address?' she asked.

"I can," said I.

"Do it," said she. "No, don't ask me. I am helping you. I have my thoughts. Now take me home."

I took her home and telegraphed to a brother detective to telegraph to the widow, and I waited and watched. I saw her get into a carriage and go away. I followed and saw her take the train. If Kitty wanted her out of the way, she was safe.

A few hours afterward I received a note:

"Disguise yourself as an old woman and come here at once. Come in a cab. Wear a thick black veil. Send up word that you are my Aunt Agues. Lose no time."

I lost none. As I went slowly up the stairs, with my black veil down, I could hear my heart beat. Kitty opened the door, called out, "Why, aunty, dear!" and shut it.

"I have opened the door between my room and Mrs. Mull's," she said. "I have found something. I can't appear in this matter. You must see for yourself."

She led me into the handsome room and went to a wardrobe. There, from beneath other dresses, she drew a plainly cut coat, or redingote, of thin black cloth, with many buttons down the front, and spread it on a chair. About the height of the knees a piece was torn away and a button gone.

"Hush!" she said. "We don't know who may be listening. Make no sound."

Then she took the bit of cloth from her pocket, fitted it to the rent and laid the button on it.

"The piece of cloth found in dead Mrs. Jeffries' hand came from this garment," was her remark.

"Yes," I said, "she must have disguised him in it. But—why"——

"Goosey!" said Kitty. "Mr. Jeffries could not get into this. Mrs. Mull wore it herself. Mrs. Mull killed old Mrs. Jeffries. The nephew knows nothing about it—guesses nothing. This wicked woman wanted to marry him when he had inherited the estate. She has done it. I watched her through the peephole I had made. I saw her writhe in agony, and, without speaking a word, wring her hands and tear her hair. It was an awful sight, but I knew it was a guilty conscience that moved her. There—you have it all in your own hands now. I'll go and tell Mrs. G—— that I have news which must take me away, pay her my board and go with you in the cab."

I left her at her own door. Mrs. Mull was arrested at the station on her return, and it was all as Kitty said. She made full confession. She had conceived the idea of murdering the old woman that her nephew might get the money, and she had hoped the poor roof mender would be charged with the crime.

She was a fiend in female form, but the thought that I had driven a woman to the gallows haunted me and sickened me of the detective business, which I left very soon.

Kitty and I are keeping a little hotel now and prospering very well.—London Tit-Bits.

Almost a Tragedy.

A company of local talent started out to do a few one night stands as a flier, with the hope that enough would be in it to justify the manager in effecting a permanent organization for the winter. After the first night the company returned.

"What's the matter?" asked a friend of the manager.

"Oh, I thought I would lay the company off for awhile."

"Didn't you open to a good business?"

"Well, not exactly—that is, we didn't have much of an audience when the curtain went up, but there was a full house in the last act."

"How did that happen? People catch on to what a good show it was?"

"Not exactly. You see everybody had got out before the last act except one fellow, and he was so full that he couldn't, and we played the piece out on him."—Detroit Free Press.

Nothing Original About Him.

One of the greatest sorrows of famous personages is that it is impossible to live up to the ideal opinion which the people whom they meet in the ordinary affairs of life have formed of them.

It is recorded that a certain literary man of high reputation had occasion to remark to a waiter in the restaurant where he sometimes lunches:

"Waiter, this beefsteak is tough."

The waiter looked at him with a sorrowful expression and sighed deeply.

"Perhaps you will tell me," said the literary man, "why you sigh in that fashion."

"Ah, sir," said the waiter, "I took you for a man who always said original things, and here you come and say just the same thing that all the rest of them do!"—Exchange.

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
United Hospital and Dispensary, Boston, Mass.

A Poor Catch.

"Are you getting many bites?" asked one man of another, who was angling in a New Jersey stream.

"Plenty," was the laconic reply.

"Are you catching many?"

"Not one!"

"How's that?"

"They fly away."

"Fly? The fishes fly away?" repeated the questioner in amazement.

"Who is talking about fish?"

"I am."

"Well, I'm not."

"What are you talking about?"

"Mosquitoes!"—Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

Some Other Stone.

"Gentlemen," said the guest at the hotel, who was supposed to be a drummer from the east, "you have all heard about the madstone, of course—that curious stone which cures hydrophobia in human beings?"

Yes; we had all heard of it.

"I think I have a treat for you here," he continued as he took a parcel from his pocket wrapped up in tissue paper. "I happen to be the owner of a madstone. There are only 10 in America, and I have one. You will of course want to know how I got it, and I will briefly explain that it was left to me by an old Kentucky darky on his deathbed. I was born and raised in that state, and the darky was my father's slave till freedom came. Here it is."

"You call that a madstone, do you?" queried one of the group.

"I do, sir—one of the best of the 10."

"Well, I don't! If that isn't a common whetstone, such as you can buy anywhere for 10 cents, I'll eat it!"

"My dear man, you are 'way off!' I myself have seen this stone cure three different people. In fact it cured me."

"What of?"

"Hydrophobia, of course!"

"I don't believe it!"

"But you don't mean to call me a liar?"

"No, of course not! You have been taken in and done for on that stone. It's simply a common whetstone."

"And it won't cure hydrophobia?"

"No, sir!"

"And it didn't cure me?"

"No, sir!"

"Wasn't it left me by a dying colored man?"

"Not at all! It's a whetstone you carry around in your trunk, and very handy things they are. No, sir, that's no mad stone!"

The drummer got up and went to a window and heaved the stone into the street. When he returned, nothing was said for a long time. By and by he quietly asked of the whetstone man:

"Have we met before?"

"We have," was the reply. "I heard you gulling a crowd in Indianapolis two months ago, and one of them was the clerk in the hardware store who sold you the stone."—Detroit Free Press.

He Did the Conductor.

"I was coming up from the Indian Territory once," said a drummer, "and there was a newspaper man on the sleeper. His name was Rody, but he had a pass with some other fellow's name on it. When the conductor came along, Rody showed up the ticket.

"'Is your name Baker?' asked the conductor. That was the name on the ticket.

"'Yes, sir, it is,' replied Rody.

"'Have you a card or letter by which you could be identified?' persisted the conductor.

"'I am sorry,' said Rody, 'but I haven't got a thing that way.'

"'Well, don't you know that that is no way to travel? Suppose you should be killed in an accident, how would your body be identified?'

"'Why, by the pass,' responded Rody dryly.

"The conductor gave up the cross questioning, and Rody rode clear to Kansas City on that other fellow's ticket."—Washington Post.

They Were In the Way.

Such a serio comic sight was a little maid of about 3 years at Manhattan beach the other day. The poor baby, who was nearsighted and wore spectacles, wanted to paddle in the water and spoil her russet shoes. Her nurse had been forbidden to take them off, so baby set up a howl and finally sobbed out:

"Take 'em off, Mary." I thought she meant the shoes, but she went on, "Take off my spettettles so I can cry!"—New York Recorder.

His Throat.

The brawny policeman crouched in the doorway, glaring out into the darkened street.

Suddenly the loud blast of a tin horn sounded near at hand.

The policeman gave a mighty bound into the street and caught two trembling boys by the collar.

"Wow!" he thundered. "If Oi knew which wan av yez done it, Oi—Oi'd run yez both in!"—Truth.

SHOTS HERE AND THERE

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

Buttermilk Popular in Hot Weather—Some of the Reasons Why It Is Liked North Street Will Be Good Cycling Ground.

The buttermilk man goes his rounds through the city and appears to do a thriving business, especially when the days are hot. He is not the only one who dispenses buttermilk, for there are several places where it is kept in stock to which people go and procure what they want; so it evident that a considerable quantity is disposed of daily.

Buttermilk is not of much use as an article for cooking or mixing with other materials for the table; the demand for it is almost solely that it may be used as a beverage.

There are worse things than buttermilk with which to quench the thirst on a hot day. Those who drink it like the mildly acid flavor it possesses, and the cheesy matter which it contains fills the stomach, and to some extent satifies hunger, besides affording a very pleasant soothing effect through that organ upon the entire nervous system.

The medicinal effects of buttermilk in heart and kidney diseases are said to be excellent; but let the doctors tell about that.

Buttermilk changes its flavor with age. Each day as it grows older it increases in acidity and those who truly like it, know just the age at which they prefer it. I knew, some years ago, a set of youngsters on a farm who used to have earthenware jars, in which they put it, sitting around the cellar, purposely to age and ripen in acidity, and each one of these youngsters had a favorite age which he wished his buttermilk to attain before he drank it.

Buttermilk has its admirers in the great city as well as in the country. Down in Wall street carts vend it on the sidewalk, and in many of the restaurants the sign, "Fresh Buttermilk" is conspicuous. Even in the drinking saloons it is kept on hand, and if the frequenters of such places would take it and leave the more fiery beverages severely alone it would be vastly better for them.

Buttermilk is not a drink that is universally admired. I know a great many who don't like it, and I am sure there are lots of people who despise it. I well remember, years ago, hearing a testy old gentleman's opinion of it. "It isn't fit for hogs," was the way he estimated it. But for all that there are many who take pleasure in drinking it and would feel a sense of deprivation if they could not occasionally get it.

Cyclists will have a fine track when the North street paving is complete. From Franklin Square to Wickham avenue, it will be nearly a dead level and with the exception of the railroad crossing as smooth as a parlor floor. It will be a grand place for speed and the cyclists are sure to improve it to its full extent.

ORANGE COUNTY'S SURPLUS CASH.

Nearly Three-and-a-half Millions Idle in Banks.

From the Independent Republican.

There should be no complaint of a scarcity of money in Orange county. In eleven national banks on July 18th there was on deposit, lying idle and drawing no interest $3,362,918. Of this amount $1,285,329 was deposited in Newburgh banks, $575,485 in Goshen, $571,538 in Middletown, $149,311 in one bank in Port Jervis, $227,263 in Warwick, $145,673 in Walden and $105,319 in Chester. In addition to this is the sums on deposit with trust and safe deposit companies in Newburgh and Middletown on which interest is paid, and also the amounts invested for depositors by savings banks in Goshen, Newburgh, Middletown, Port Jervis, and Walden.

These vast sums show that Orange is a wealthy county. They also show that capitalists are timorous about making investments during a period of business depression and they should also make plain to Republicans at Washington and their Democratic assistants who are obstructing tariff reform that a speedy solution of the question is essential to a return of prosperity.

It Was Cans, Not Cars.

The Anglo-Swiss Condensery, of Middletown, on Wednesday, shipped 121 cars of milk on telegraphic orders from Brooklyn, Jersey City and New York. So says the ARGUS. Wasn't it 121 cans, neighbor? Even that would represent nearly 5,000 quarts. —Newburgh Register.

Yes, it was cans, and was so marked in the proof, but a tramp printer who made the error and failed to correct it left town as soon as the paper went to press. If he ever comes this way again we'll have satisfaction.

Enforce the Bicycle Ordinance.

The bicycle ordinance is honored more in the breach than observance. Comparatively few Middletown wheelmen carry lanterns and some have no bells, or if so, the riders do not use them. An ordinance, if worth the effort of preparation and cost of advertising, should be enforced.

ARSENIC IN CHERRY BEER.

Half a Bottle Contained Enough to Kill 5,000 People—The Stomachs of the Dead Paterson Children Contained Enoughto Kill 100 Persons.

Dr. Walter M. Sheede, of Brooklyn, who was employed to analyze the wild cherry beer, part of which was drunk by the two Baker children, of Paterson, N. J., who afterward died, reported to a Coroner's jury last night that half a stone bottle of beer submitted to him contained enough arsenic to kill 5,275 persons. The stomach of the eldest child contained 9¾ grains of arsenic, and that of the younger five grains, sufficient to kill 100 persons.

Dr. Sheede states that the arsenic would not have remained in the bottle in such a large quantity had it been cleaned thoroughly. The Coroner's jury requested P. Pfannebacker, the manufacturer, to use glass bottles in the future. They will request the Legistature to pass a law prohibiting the use of stone bottles for mineral waters.

Pfannebacker acknowledged to the jury that he purchased bottles from the garbage company, Italians and children, who gathered them from ash barrels and garbage dumps.

ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY.

A Western Union Lineman Steals $134 From His Room Mates.

Two emigrants named John Gibson and Robert Conners, arrived in Newburgh Wednesday night and stopped at the Metropolitan Hotel, and were assigned to a room in which Edward Sankey, a Western Union lineman occupied a bed.

When the strangers awoke in the morning, the lineman was gone and so was $134 of their money all they had to begin life in the new world.

The loss was reported to the police and Marshall Perrott traced Sankey to Wappingers Falls where he was having a spree. He was arrested and had $123 on his person.

He was brought to Newburgh and yesterday was sent to jail in default of $1,000 bail.

GIRLS EARNING A LIVING.

The Summer Weather Tests the Resources of Working Girls—Must Keep Neat and Well at Small Expense—Paine's Celery Compound.

One, two, three, four crisp dollar bills—pay for a whole week's tiresome work behind counters, or in some factory.

Imagine it your own daughter.

It shocks one to think that laces and ribbons come so dear and life so cheap.

Trying to earn a living at this rate soon brings out all the working girl's womanly resources to keep neatly dressed, pleasant faced and well. Few days can be spared for sickness and strength must not flag till past closing time.

The best friend the working girl has ever had is Paine's celery compound. It keeps her well and full of strength and courage. It restores vitality to tired nerves; it feeds every tissue of the body when unusual waste has reduced the weight and strength of the body, as is frequently the case in the heated season. It gives new appetite and keeps every part of the body, nerves and blood so well nourished that the nervous, exhausted, tired, "run down," feeling from worry and hard work, soon disappears.

In headaches, the head is not alone the offending part. The brain is the center of the great nervous system, and there is a continual communication from every part of the body to it. Hence a derangement of the stomach, liver, or kidneys produces headaches, though the head be in a healthy condition.

Nervous headache, neuralgia, rheumatism and heart troubles are due to blood insufficient in quantity and lacking in richness. Worry and long hours of uninterrupted work, especially in the summer, exhaust the muscles. To quickly furnish a fresh and abundant supply of nutriment for every tissue of the body is the purpose for which Paine's celery compound was first prepared. This rapid production of fresh nervous energy and pure blood was the endeavor of Prof. Edward E. Phelps's long study of the causes of nervous exhaustion. The result of his life work was Paine's celery compound, that remarkable remedy that permanently and speedily cures diseases of the liver, kidneys and stomach. It is the greatest nerve regulator and blood purifier of the present century.

BASE BALL NOTES.

Cuban Giants, Monday.

—The Cooperstowns continue to win. Yesterday they defeated the Genesee club, at Utica, 9 to 3. The latter is the club scheduled to play against the Asylums at Livingston Manor, on the occasion of the Conductors clam bake, August 16th.

—Dr. D. H. Arthur and "Capt Jack" Degnan saw the New York-Brooklyn games, yesterday.

—The Cuban Giants play their third game here, on Monday. It is "hoss and hoss," each team having a game to its credit.

—The Asylums will visit Orange on next Saturday, and will play their second game with the Orange Athletics.

—The Electric base ball club, of this city, hereby challenges the Columbia club to play them a game of ball, with city players only, at any time acceptable to them.

A Correction.

The ARGUS was slightly in error in its statesment regarding the operation which was performed upon the eye of an inmate of the Childrens Home. The operation was performed by Dr. Valk at the solicitation of Dr. Julia Bradner, the regular physician of the institution. The child had been almost totally blind from its infancy, and while the matron had called the attention of one of the Superintendents of the Poor to its condition, it was not in an official way and the Superintendents are in no way to blame for any neglect in the matter as might be inferred from the wording of the article.

To Cure a Sick Headache.

An exchange gives the following cure for sick headache. It won't cost much to try it:

Take a tablespoonful of red pepper, mix it with vinegar to a thick paste and spread upon a cloth, cotton or linen, bind upon the forehead with a handkerchief from temple to temple, then take about two grains of red pepper in a teaspoonful of vinegar and swallow it. The mixture on the forehead will burn, but will not blister, and in the course of fifteen minutes the headache will disappear under the stimulating effect of this remedy, leaving the patient feeling as if such distressing things as sick headaches were unknown to the human family.

The Grip.

An experience with this disease during all its past epidemics, warrants the bold claim that Dr. King's New Discovery will positively cure each and every case if taken in time, and patient takes the ordinary care to avoid exposure. Another thing has been proven, that those who have used Dr. King's New Discovery, escape the many troublesome after results of this disease. By all means get a bottle. It is guaranteed, and money will be refunded if no good results follow its use. Sold by McMonagle & Rogers.

THE SECRET OF BEAUTY IS Cuticura SOAP

The most effective skin purifying and beautifying soap in the world. It is the only preventive of pimples, blackheads, red, rough, and oily skin, red, rough hands with shapeless nails, dry, thin, and falling hair, and simple baby blemishes. It is so because it strikes at the cause of most complexional disfigurations, viz., THE CLOGGED, IRRITATED, INFLAMED, OVERWORKED, OR SLUGGISH PORE.

FOR FACIAL BLEMISHES

rashes, freckles, blotches and stings of insects, irritations, yellow, oily, and mothy skins, chafings, and undue perspiration. CUTICURA SOAP, because of its delicate medication, is the most soothing, cooling, purifying, and healing application, as well as being beyond all comparison the purest, sweetest, and most refreshing of toilet, bath, and nursery soaps. Sale greater than combined sales of all other skin and complexion soaps.

Sold throughout the world. Price, 25c. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston. "All about the Skin, Scalp, and Hair," free.
